154	Plummy Fashions Ltd	North Norshingpur, Kashipur, Fatullah, Narayangonj	11/03/17	0	1	It is with great sadness that the Accord has learned that on 9 November 2017, a worker died after suffering extensive burns in a fire that occurred six days earlier at the Accord-covered factory Plummy Fashions Ltd., located in North Norshingpur, Kashipur, Fatullah, Narayangonj. On Friday, 3 November 2017, a fire broke out at Plummy Fashions Ltd. Factory management reported that the fire was caused by a short circuit in the control panel of a "soft setting calendar machine" (SSCM). An electrical trainee worker who was performing maintenance work on the SSCM at the time of the fire, suffered severe burns. The fire reportedly started at around 8:15 a.m. in the dyeing section of the factory building and was extinguished within 10 minutes with a CO2 fire extinguisher. The factory reported that as the fire occurred on the factory's weekly holiday, there were no witnesses. At the time of the Accord post-fire inspection, the components to the SSCM which had caught fire had reportedly been replaced in order to continue the maintenance work. Investigation of the machine's inverter indicated that fire occurred in the panel of the SSCM. The Accord has concluded that the fire is likely attributed to a defect/electrical problem with the machine which caught fire and not with the electrical system of the factory. http://bangladeshaccord.org/2017/11/statement-fire-fatality-plummy-fashions-ltd/
